COUNTY ATTORNEY

Makes Big Collection For County by Pushing Old Suit.

$1,156.79 Collected and More Yet to Come.

When County Attorney Earl W. Senff went into office there was pending in the Menefee Circuit Court an old suit of Montgomery county vs. Menefee county, originally brought by Judge Ed. C. O'Rear, which had been permitted to drag along for many years and he began at once to have same pressed to final completion. The case grew out of the fact that Montgomery county many years ago voted a Railroad Bond Issue. Subsequently part of Montgomery county was taken to make up the present county of Menefee county and suit was instituted to compel the part of Menefee county taken from Montgomery county to bear its proportionate part of the R. R. Bond Issue. This, the Court of Appeals held was proper and the first levy realized the sum of $1,156.79, which has been turned over by the County Attorney to the County Treasurer.

Under the judgment obtained there is yet due the county over $5,000.00 which will be paid in yearly payments. As fast as collected the money will be paid on the bonds outstanding to stop accumulation of interest.

Lincoln's Birthday.

Monday was the birthday of Abraham Lincoln, sixteenth President of the United States, a native son of Kentucky, the emancipator of the American negro, and a man, regarded by many as the greatest American. He was born a poor boy, February 12, 1809, 103 years ago Monday, and died in Washington, D. C., while President of the United States, April 15, 1865.

Death of Mrs. Ballinger.

Mrs. Sarah Jane Ballinger died at her home in this city Monday of acute pneumonia. Mrs. Ballinger was in her 89th year and was a most excellent Christian woman and will be sadly missed.

TOBACCO SALES

Active Bidding at Winchester Loose Leaf Warehouse.

Prices Ranging From 2 to 41c Per Pound.

There was a good deal of tobacco on the floor of the Planters Loose Leaf Warehouse at Winchester Monday and 100,000 pounds were sold at prices ranging from 2c to 41c per pound. One crop of green and frozen sold at an average of 4c. Some not so badly frozen sold as high as 8c. Some black frozen sold at 2c. One crop of fair color sold at an average of 20½c. Several crops sold at an average of 10½ to 20½c. A few baskets of old color tobacco sold at from 27 to 41c per pound.

Mr. L. H. Mason, of this county, sold a crop at $11.20. There were few rejections and the prices obtained were generally satisfactory.

The next sale will be held Thursday, Feb. 15th.

Free Show.

The International Harvester Co. has secured the court house for next Saturday afternoon and night and will give a free picture show entitled, "The Romance of the Reaper."

This show will show the progress of the modern reaper from the first harvesting hook to the present up-to-date reaper and it is said is a most interesting show.

The company has sent out a large number of tickets, but if you have failed to get one call at either Prewitt & Howell Hdw. Co. or Chenault & O'Rear's and get one.

HANDSOME NEW MACHINE INSTALLED.

It is with considerable pleasure and pride we announce to our readers and patrons that we have just added to our plant the latest Mentges folder, trimmer and paster combined, of which the above is a likeness.

This machine folds and trims the paper, besides pasting the inner section to the outer section, thus making the paper into a very convenient form for reading, as one can turn from page to page without the inner sheets falling out. This office has had a folding machine for many years, but desiring to keep abreast of the times and accommodate our growing business deemed it best to install a newer and more up-to-date machine which will enable us to give the people a more attractive paper. We are grateful to our friends for their patronage and solicit a continuation of same, promising to promptly dispatch all business given us at prices as low as high grade workmanship and material will permit.

CLARENCE LEBUS AND C. H. BERRYMAN

Will Address the Tobacco Growers at the Court House Monday, February 19.

Messrs. Clarence LeBus and C. H. Berryman, of Lexington, will address the tobacco growers of Montgomery and adjoining counties at the court house in this city, next Monday, February 19, at 1:30 o'clock. These gentlemen will explain the ten year pooling contract in full and it is hoped a large crowd of those interested in the growing of tobacco will be present to hear these distinguished gentlemen.

Painfully Injured.

Friday morning about 7:30 o'clock, while on Bank street in front of J. H. Sumpter's livery stable, Mr. Louis Utz slipped and fell on the icy pavement, painfully spraining his right arm between the wrist and elbow. The injury, which was an exceedingly painful one, was dressed by Dr. McKenna. This is the second injury Mr. Utz has received in the last two weeks, having fallen and severely wrenched his back, and at the time of his last fall had not fully recovered from the first one.

Mr. Utz is one of the popular salesmen at Punch & Graves', and while he is not yet able to attend to his duties at the store, his many friends are glad that he is able to be out.

MERCHANTS' PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION

Holds Adjourned Meeting at the Court House Monday Afternoon.

An adjourned meeting of the Merchants' Protective Association of Montgomery county was held at the county court room on Monday, Feb. 12. By-laws were adopted and a committee, known as the Advisory Advertising Committee, was appointed. The purpose of this committee, in addition to giving publicity to the organization and the community, is to act as censors on all advertising propositions. The members of the association, through this committee, expect to save hundreds of dollars that are expended annually on worthless advertising schemes. All advertising propositions, excepting regular newspaper ads, must be submitted to this committee, otherwise the members of the association will not consider them.

Several new members were enrolled and the association will be in active operation in a few days. The members, henceforth, hope to enjoy the profits accruing from their business instead of having them eaten up by bad debts.

It would be advisable for those who have not settled their January accounts with the members of the association to make a settlement at once and thus protect their credit.

Changes Position.

Mr. Rezin McClure, who has been stock salesman for the Great Southern Fire Insurance Co. in Louisville for some time past, has resigned his position and accepted a similar one with the United American Fire Insurance Co., located at Frankfort. This company was only recently organized and is headed by Mr. Hubert Vreeland, Judge E. C. O'Rear and other distinguished Kentucky gentlemen.

Mr. McClure has had a number of years experience as a stock salesman and the new company is indeed fortunate in securing the services of this capable young man.

CHARITY BALL HERE

To be Given at Trimble's Hall, Thursday, Feb. 15

Under the Auspices of the Woman's Club of Mt. Sterling.

On next Thursday evening, February 15th, at Trimble's Hall, and under the auspices of the Woman's Club of Mt. Sterling, there will be a Charity Ball, en masque, for the benefit of the City Library. There will be a charge of $3.00 to each young man who dances and 25 cents admission to spectators. Refreshments served to dancers without extra cost.

The members of the Woman's Club, under whose management the Library has been for several years, are trying by this means to raise much needed funds.

There will be good music, bright lights, lovely costumes, and dainty luncheon. It is a rare opportunity for the good people of Mt. Sterling to help a cause which should be each one's own and at the same time to pass a most delightful evening.

CANTRILL WINS FIGHT

Democratic State Committee Holds Primary is Legal.

Vote Stands 8 to 4 in Favor of Primary.

At a meeting of the State Central Committee, held at the Phoenix Hotel at Lexington Monday afternoon, by a vote of 8 to 4 the primary set for March 16th was upheld by the committee.

It had been reported several times that State Chairman Henry R. Prewitt had refused to call the committee together and when the committee was called to order Mr. Prewitt said that he did not know how such a report had gotten started as he had been out of the State and knew nothing about it, and that he made this statement in order to put himself right with the public.

Mr. Cantrill addressed the committee and explained his side of the question while Judge Samuel M. Wilson presented the arguments against the snap primary.

After hearing the arguments the committee voted as follows:

To sustain the call—J. W. Pugh, State-at-Large; N. P. Taylor, Second District; T. J. Moore, Fourth District; J. C. Kennedy, Fifth District; J. A. Donaldson, Sixth District; W. L. Bramblett, Ninth District; W. A. Berry, First District; proxy voted by J. W. Pugh; T. B. Pannell, Third District, proxy voted by J. C. Kennedy.

Against the call—Thomas A. Combs, Seventh District; J. A. Sullivan, Eighth District; H. M. Cox, Tenth District; Woodson May, Eleventh District.

The Moody Bill.

Kentucky has had her fair share of lynchings and has paid the full price for them in a reputation for lawlessness which the mass of her people in no wise deserve. Seven out of every ten, if not nine out of every ten, of these lynchings would have been prevented had the officers in charge of the lynchings made the mob acquainted with the fact that they were prepared to shoot and to shoot straight in order to protect him. In ten out of every ten lynchings where the mob failed to receive such information and the prisoner protection, the Jailer or the Sheriff had nothing to lose except the worth of his oath of office.

Mobs, as a rule, where not composed of "our best citizens," are fairly certain to number many of our best voters. The prisoner in such cases is not, as a rule, gifted with popularity. The office of Jailer or Sheriff is elective. The line of least resistance apparently offers the largest measure of profit to the official less concerned as to his duty than his re-election.

The Moody bill, recently introduced in the Senate, provides for the suspension, the trial and punishment of the peace officer who fails to protect his prisoner. If it becomes law, there will be fewer lynchings or else fewer mob survivors. Kentucky will suffer in neither event.

The Moody bill should be passed. —Louisville Times.

FRECKLE-FACE.

February Brings Out Unsightly Spots—How to Remove Easily.

Do you know how easy it is to remove those ugly spots so that no one will call you freckle-face?

Simply get an ounce of othine, double strength, from W. S. Lloyd and one night's treatment will show you how easy it is to rid yourself of freckles and get a beautiful complexion. The sun and winds in February bring out freckles, and as a result more othine is sold this month, and the druggists sometimes find it difficult to get sufficient to supply all calls. Be sure to ask for the double strength othine, as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove the freckles. 32-2c

Investigate.

We have had several farmers who have hauled or shipped part of their tobacco to other cities tell us that after deducting their expenses they have been offered as much and in some cases more than they realized on the tobacco already sold. We have several tobacco buyers here and are soon to have a sale at the loose leaf warehouse, so why not investigate thoroughly before hauling your tobacco away?

SICKLY CHILD

Made Well By Vinol—Letters from a Grateful Mother

New Haven, Conn.—"My little girl, ever since her birth, was frail and sickly and nothing seemed to do her any good until we tried your cod liver and iron tonic, Vinol. As soon as she commenced to take it, I noticed an improvement in her health and appearance. She has now taken three bottles of Vinol, and from the good it has done her I can say it will do all you claim for it in building up and strengthening frail and delicate children." (Name furnished on request.)

Another mother of Chicago, Ill., writes: "I can not say too much in praise of Vinol for delicate, ailing children."

We ask every mother of a frail, sickly or ailing child in this vicinity to try Vinol on our agreement to return their money if it does not do all we claim.

Our Immigrants.

A considerable change in our foreign-born population is revealed by the census. During the last decade the numbers of natives of Austria-Hungary, Italy, Russia and Finland residing in the United States have doubled. There has been an increase of 18 per cent. in the number of those born in Norway, Sweden and Denmark; an increase of 4.7 per cent. in the natives from Great Britain, which now number 1,166,863, and a smaller increase in those from Canada and New Foundland, which number a trifle more.

There has been a decline of 10 per cent. in those of Irish birth, until the present number is only 1,351,400. The number of native-born Germans decreased 11 per cent. in the decade, so that now they number only 2,499,200. There are still 50 per cent. more of Germans than of any other nationality and they constitute nearly 19 per cent. of our foreign-born population. Natives of Germany, Ireland, Great Britain, Scandinavia and Canada now constitute 56.4 per cent. of our foreign-born population as compared with 76.6 per cent. ten years earlier. From 1821 to 1870 natives of these countries together contributed about nine-tenths of all the immigrants to this country, but in the last forty years their proportion has steadily declined until in the last decade they were only a little more than one-fifth of the total.

Dog Lives 20 Years.

James Boundrant, a widely known and respected darkey of this city, has just reported to us the death of his little dog, "Bob," and given us the following story:

"I moved to the house where I now live on the Camargo pike the first of March, 20 years ago. Just before I moved there Mrs. J. A. Vansant gave me this little rat dog. Bob was a small black dog and the best ratter you ever saw as well as being a good watch dog. He was in good physical condition up until the last few months of his life. He began getting gray several years ago and when he died he had nearly turned white."

Peter Hensley, of this city, said he owned "Bob's" sire and that he lived to be 27 years old.

Resigns Position.

U. S. Commissioner Stanley O. Wood has resigned, his resignation to take effect as soon as his successor can be appointed. Mr. W. Hoffman Wood will probably be appointed and we would be more than pleased to see him land the job as he is energetic and capable and would no doubt maintain the high standard of efficiency as established by his preceding relatives.

Mr. Hoffman Wood is an uncle of the present Commissioner and a brother of two former ones, John C. and Henry S. Wood, while his father, Major A. T. Wood, was Commissioner here for several years.

Pale Faces

Pale-faced, weak, and shaky women—who suffer every day with womanly weakness—need the help of a gentle tonic, with a building action on the womanly system. If you are weak—you need Cardui, the woman's tonic, because Cardui will act directly on the cause of your trouble. Cardui has a record of more than 50 years of success. It must be good.

Take CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

Mrs. Effie Graham, of Willard, Ky., says: "I was so weak I could hardly go. I suffered, nearly every month, for 3 years. When I began to take Cardui, my back hurt awfully. I only weighed 99 pounds. Not long after, I weighed 115. Now, I do all my work, and am in good health." Begin taking Cardui, today.

The World in Cincinnati.

Unusual preparations are being made for the presentation of the Pageant of Darkness and Light in connection with "The World in Cincinnati," the great Missionary Exposition to be held in Music Hall buildings from March 9 to April 6. A call has gone out to the churches of Cincinnati and vicinity for 5,000 singers and other participants who are to be engaged in the presentation of the Pageant, serving in relays. The costumes used at the presentation of the Pageant at "The Orient in London" in 1908, and at "The World in Boston" last year, are to be used in Cincinnati.

The Pageant of Darkness and Light is a great musical drama, a spectacular representation of triumphal events in the history of missions. There are five episodes or scenes, in each of which about 200 persons participate. The first episode, known as the Episode of the North, represents a camp of American Indians in the far Northwest. The little daughter of the chief has been lost on the march. The medicine man suggests that a band of trading Eskimos be killed to appease the spirits, but just as the Indians are about to do this, a missionary enters, bringing the little daughter of the chief whom he has found in the forest.

In the South Episode, which is Africa, David Livingstone, the missionary and explorer, ministers to a wounded Arab slave-raider. Shortly, after, Stanley enters, at last finding Livingstone. He begs the missionary to return to England, but Livingstone refuses, saying his work is not done.

India is the scene of the East Episode. A child is taken from the missionaries in order that she may be formally married to the man selected as her husband in her babyhood. In the second scene, the wife, now a woman, is led to the funeral pyre of her husband. As the pyre is about to be lighted, with the living widow upon it, an official of the English Government arrives with a proclamation doing away with the suttee, as this rite was called.

In the Episode of the West, Kapiolani, the Christian Queen of Hawaii, defies Pele, the goddess of the Lake of Fire in the crater of the volcano Kilauea. The volcano is in eruption. The priest of Pele claims victims to appease the wrath of the goddess. He chooses a young bridegroom and a child, and is leading them to the crater to be thrown into the Lake of Fire. Queen Kapiolani comes quickly and defies the priest. She ascends to the crater, and, after the fashion of Elijah on Mount Carmel, taunts and defies the goddess and breaks the power of Pele forever.

The final episode is a great procession. Those who have participated in the four previous episodes march from the corners of the Pageant to the platform and arrange themselves in tableaux around a cross, singing the closing chorus.

The Pageant is to be given in the auditorium of Music Hall every afternoon and every evening during the four weeks of the Exposition. The Pageant was presented in London and Boston to thousands of people every day. It was regarded as one of the greatest religious spectacles of the century. There was evidence that a deep spiritual impression was made upon the people who attended.

Hon. R. K. Hart Dies

In Fleming County.

Hon. R. K. Hart, 58 years old, died Wednesday morning after a long illness at Flemingsburg. Mr. Hart was one of the leading Democrats in Eastern Kentucky, having twice represented Fleming county in the Legislature and six years ago was the Democratic nominee for Congressman from the Ninth District. During Gov. Beckham's administration he was a member of the State Board of Equalization.

A Touch of Pity. A tender-hearted youth was once present at an Oxford supper, where the fathers of those assembled were being roundly abused for their parsimony in supplying the demands of their sons. At last after having long kept silence, he lifted up his voice in mild protest.

"After all, gentlemen," he said, "let us remember that they are our fellow creatures."—Argonaut.

Relieves Backache Instantly

Sloan's Liniment is a great remedy for backache. It penetrates and relieves the pain instantly—no rubbing necessary—just lay it on lightly.

Here's Proof.

"I had my back hurt in the Boer War and in San Francisco two years ago I was hit by a street car in the same place. I tried all kinds of dope without success. Two weeks ago I saw your liniment in a drug store and got a bottle to try. The first application caused instant relief, and now except for a little stiffness, I am almost well."

PLEA FOR "OLD BLACK JOE"

How William Alden Smith Induced Senate to Keep Aged Negro on Its Payroll.

There was something intensely human in the action of Senator William Alden Smith urging the senate to retain on its payroll the name of "Old Black Joe" Jones, the former bodyguard of President Jefferson Davis. Senator Smith made the air ring as throwing back his head he rolled out "Sirs" in the good old Patrick Henry fashion. "Sir," he declared to the chair, "the southerners have cared for their wounded and suffering, they have asked no pensions from the government against which they rebelled. With a solicitude which we may well emulate, they have bound up their own wounds, nursed their own sick and dying and cared for their dead, rebuilt their devastated states and voluntarily burdened themselves that we might pension our heroes and house them in comfort in their declining years. I think it is little less than pusillanimous to object to a simple recognition for an aged negro."

There was a rolleall, and by a vote of 37 to 18 "Old Joe" was retained on the payroll of the senate. One senator averred that the word "pusillanimous" carried the day for William Alden. But the senator from Michigan only smiled, and after the merry war he strolled down the senate corridor in front of the marble room whistling the refrain of "Old Black Joe" at lively tempo. —Joe Mitchell Chapple in National Magazine.

THE REASON.

The City Man—What! Fifteen dollars a week! Why, rooms and board ain't scarce about here! The Countryman—I know, but boarders are.

SMALL WORKING MODELS.

Whether tiny working models of machinery are worth the labor they cost or not, such a collection of marvels as British amateurs have brought together in the London exhibition of engineering models is at least highly instructive. For the most part, such products seem to represent the diversion of persons engaged in employment very different from machine making. At this exhibition about one hundred entries were made by many varied trades—a working steam engine, small enough to stand on a threepenny piece, being one of the eight smallest engines made by three Scotch miners; a complete working model of the Mauretania, the work of a bricklayer of sixty-seven; and a little traction engine, including water tubes, boiler and superheater, the result of a Surrey gardener's spare time efforts.

CAPACITY FOR LABOR.

By actual tests two horses weighing 1,600 pounds each can pull 3,750 pounds, which is 550 pounds more than their combined weight. One elephant weighing 12,000 pounds can pull 8,750 pounds, which is 3,250 pounds less than its weight. Fifty men, aggregating 7,500 pounds in weight, can pull 8,750 pounds, which is the score of the elephant. It will be observed that the men also pull more than their own weight.

RICHES OF ALASKA.

Alaska has proved to be a bonanza in fisheries and a treasure house of gold, coal and copper. There are agricultural stations within seventy-five miles of the arctic circle. At some points, indeed, vegetables are grown north of the arctic circle, close up to the shores of the Arctic ocean. Stock-raising is progressing in Alaska and its islands, while wheat, oats and barley flourish under the icy stars of the north.

HAIRS FROM FAMOUS HORSES

It is a Fad in England to Collect Mementoes From Tails of Racers.

There was a somewhat unpleasant incident at the Yarmouth race meeting caused by a curious hobby which is growing increasingly popular among lovers of race horses. A horse suddenly lashed out with its heels, and a man who was behind it narrowly escaped serious injury.

The trainer spoke to the man angrily, and when asked to explain the incident the trainer said that the man had been trying to pull hairs from the horse's tail. He added that many people made collections of the hairs from famous horses. Ordinarily they wrote to the owner or trainer for them, but there were a certain number of men who tried to make a few shillings by plucking them from the horses at different meetings.

It appears that there are many such collections, and one of them recently changed hands for $100. Such a price is above the average, but this collection contained sixty hairs, three from each of the tails of twenty winners of classic races, among them being Galopin, Ormonde, Flying Fox, Sceptre, Ard Patrick, Rock Sand, Pretty Polly and Spearmint, the genuineness being vouched for by letters from the various owners and trainers.—London Standard.

THIS VETERAN WAS MODEST

When Finally He Was Induced to Tell of Battle, the Tale Was Disappointing.

There is in existence a very modest man who, though now peacefully employed, has in his day seen fighting in many parts of the globe. His friends know this and lose no opportunity to draw him out about his thrilling war adventures. But the veteran's modesty is such that his tales are more than likely to be colorless and disappointing.

Once some of his friends cornered him and by artful subterfuge led the conversation straight up to a certain battle, in which, as they knew, the veteran had participated. In a moment of carelessness he allowed himself to be trapped into statements regarding that battle. Whereupon, noting that he had warmed to the subject, one of his friends suddenly said:

"You were in that battle, weren't you?"

"Y-yes," confessed the veteran, much embarrassed.

"Tell us about your experiences on that day," commanded one of the gathering.

There was a breathless silence. The fighter saw there was no way out of it.

"On that day," he began slowly, "at a conservative estimate—"

All leaned forward eagerly.

"I ran twelve miles."

A BAD COLD.

She was a shiftless, slipshod creature, not very bright, not very strong, who used to come round once in a while to tell her tale of woe, except a bundle of old clothes, and perhaps earn a little by some odd job of cleaning. The family had missed her for weeks; then she reappeared.

"Well, Leslie, where have you been?"

"Oh, I been havin' the worst luck! First I had a bone felon, an' couldn't use my hand any for two weeks. Then I had neuralgia pains in my shoulder, an' couldn't use my arms any. Even now I got such a cold in my head I ain't been able to use my head for a week.—Youth's Companion.

GOOD WORK STARTED.

There has been recently formed the American Association for the Conservation of Vision, the object of which is the spreading of the gospel of proper illumination. Its field of labor has been outlined only in the most general way, but it is claimed that there is a great opportunity for good work in this direction. Most of the fixtures for artificial illumination are faulty in that efficiency is sacrificed for so-called artistic effect.

THEY DIDN'T DARE.

OUR RATES.

We stated in our last issue we would not again discuss the contract to print the City Ordinance Book and will not do so except to publicly acknowledge our error in quoting the Sentinel-Democrat as having said the contract was let to the "highest" bidder. As a matter of fact it said the "higher" bidder. We do not desire to misquote or do any one an injustice, even though it be ever so slight, and as it was made unintentionally, we deem it proper to make this statement.

It is true we charged the city one dollar a page for the sewer book, and while it is much smaller than the Ordinance Book for which we are to receive sixty-eight cents a page to furnish two hundred copies, we printed and bound, on a rush order, nine hundred copies of the sewer book.

As to the ballot work mentioned, it was done under contract with Judge Hazelrigg, the then County Clerk. The work was worth all we charged for it and was done at the contract price.

In short, we have always charged the city and county just the same prices we charge individuals, and the charges in all instances have been reasonable and in accordance with our published rate card.

All accounts of interest to the public, on our books, are open to the inspection of any one who will call to see them. We have nothing to conceal and would be glad to have our books examined.

We appreciate any business given us and endeavor to promptly furnish work of a high order. As to whether our patrons can get their work done cheaper elsewhere, quality of workmanship and material considered, is a matter addressed to them. Our purpose is to make our rates reasonable and fulfill every contract to the letter.

A VICIOUS LAW.

We have carefully read Senate Bill No. 21, entitled "An Act relating to fire, lightning, hail, windstorm and sprinkler leakage insurance and to regulate and control the rates of premium thereon and creating a state insurance board and defining the powers and duties of said board."

This bill, in our judgment, is one of the most vicious to be considered at the present session, and if enacted may cause many responsible companies to withdraw from the state. So far as our experience goes, the rates now charged are reasonable. Insurance is a necessity. Unlike railroads, insurance companies can move out and no company that might remain can be made to accept a risk, hence the people would be left at the mercy of wildcat companies that would not pay, if loss occurred. The members of the General Assembly can render a real public service by refusing to enact a law which will be productive of nothing but confusion and in the long run be of irreparable injury to the insuring public.

An editor was dying, but when the doctor bent over, placed his ear on his breast, and said, "Poor man! Circulation almost gone!" the dying editor shouted: "You're a liar! We have the largest circulation in the county!"—Exchange.

The daily press says: Dr. Theron Akin, member of Congress, has printed on his visiting cards, "Cannot be bought, sold or intimidated." We are afraid the "Lady doth protest too much."

It seems that Cantrill can come back.

Miss Walker Rogers fell last Wednesday and broke her right arm and has been confined to the house for several days.

Mr. George W. Anderson, Sr., who has been quite sick for several days past, is greatly improved and is able to be out again.

Mr. J. Q. Stephens has been confined to his home for three weeks by sickness and has been greatly missed off our streets.

Mr. J. D. Hazelrigg's condition continues about the same, with little change. Considering the fact that he is in his eightieth year, much alarm is expressed by his many friends. For more than half a century he has been one of the Lord's most faithful servants and we sincerely hope He may honor our community by giving us this exemplary citizen for many years to come.

The Impatience of Breeders.

It is the man who can wait and work that stock husbandry yields its largest results. Impatience has no reward in any great undertaking. No distinguished breeder in the days of type-creation did his work in a few years. Our American breeders of eminence have been patient to wait in faith for herd improvement and the reward that inevitably follows a service of real merit. Animal breeding increases numbers quite rapidly, but it requires time to effect and fix changes in form. Men without patience cannot wait for the great satisfactions which time alone can bring in this field.

Because they lack patience many American farmers who establish herds, flocks and studs sell out and quit before giving pedigree animal husbandry a fair trial. If they do not make money from the outset they are sure it is the fault of the stock; so they quit or try another breed, class or system. Others, who may be less concerned about immediate financial returns but aspire to prominence as constructive breeders, lose interest because progress commonly is slow.

Stock breeding is not a fad-like recreation in which quick reward, in money or progress, is possible, except in infrequent instances. No one should engage in business with the expectation of being a notable exception to the rule. Whatever his qualifications and favoring conditions, every beginner is practically sure to travel the long road of the masters, if he achieve ends comparable with theirs. No short cuts can be promised; the quick ways usually lead deviously and expensively back to the main route.

Viewed in this light, the breeding of pure-bred stock is most attractive to the patient man who has a genuine passion to paint masterpieces with a wondrous pigments of animal life, and he will reap generous reward along the way.

KEEPING THE ROOSTER QUIET

Chanticleer Will Not Crow Unless He Can Raise Head High In Air

A grave question has been raised in Atlantic. It concerns a rooster owned by one William McInnes, and the right of that rooster to crow unrestrained; also, the right of Mr. McInnes to own and operate such a crowing apparatus to the annoyance of his neighbors.

Mayor Shea of Quincy has been petitioned to abate the rooster. Now, we do not know the law on the case. We are not certain that the constitution of the United States and the decisions of the Supreme court of either the state or nation provide adequate redress. We do know, however, that this same momentous question recently came to an issue in Chicago, under similar circumstances, and that it was disposed of amicably through a device proposed by a Chicago man skilled in the anatomy and psychology of roosters.

A rooster cannot or will not crow without raising his head high in the air. If you prevent him from stretching his neck, you suppress his crow. All you have to do, therefore, to keep him quiet, is to make his coop low enough so that, whenever he feels a crow swelling his bosom and clamoring for utterance, he bumps his head. After a few bumps, he may even give up in despair, and lose all desire to crow, even if liberated.—Boston Traveller.

FRENCHMAN'S TASTE IN DRESS

His Supposed Imitations of the English Styles Are Fearful and Wonderful to Behold.

The rage for everything English still seems to continue in Paris, though the Frenchman who sets out to dress himself a l'Anglais as a rule makes but a poor show for his trouble.

His "fancy vests" are usually fearful as well as wonderful, his tie decidedly more original than beautiful and adorned with something quite barbaric in the shape of a pin, his canary colored gloves and absurd cane such as no Englishman would dream of "sporting" in his wildest moments.

The Frenchman has, I fear, innately bad taste where dress is concerned, just as the French woman beats her English and even American sisters all along the line when the question of taste in dress comes in.

The Parisienne follows the fashion of being English in such matters as "Le Sports" and "Le five o'clock," but she takes good care to set her own fashions in dress and to keep to them. Monsieur, on the other hand, would give anything to be dressed a l'Anglais and to be mistaken for an Englishman, but knows not how to manage it.—The Gentlewoman.

TEST ELECTRICAL DISCHARGE.

Some novel effects of electrical discharge have been recorded by De Muynck, a Belgian physician. A platinum wire was stretched over supports about twenty-two inches apart, and the end was brought near the spark ball of a battery of four jars, charged from a Holtz induction machine. The wire was heated, other electric currents being suitable for this. When quite hot, increasing the spark gap until no spark crossed it caused the wire to give out a musical note and at the same time to sway in oscillations of half an inch or more. The cold wire did not oscillate. The sound varied with the temperature, and with other conditions not well understood.

SQUID'S DEFENSIVE ARM.

Ancient ink was made by a squeezing out of dead squids after the body was perfectly relaxed. Painters got their sepia from this same squid's bottle. This likewise is the true source of the genuine and original India ink, for which there has never been any satisfactory substitute found. The ink bag is big as a man's thumb, and can squirt six feet, darkening more than a hoghead of water, so the squid can make unseen a dart and a dash and getaway when squid-eating sea fish come around.—New York Press.

Mapping United States Soils.

The soil, the foundation for farming, the principal investment for agriculture, is extremely variable. In topography, texture and composition it has many forms. Even on one farm there is frequently great diversity in the character of the land. Sometimes there are half a dozen or more soil types in one field.

It is no wonder that farmers are frequently at a loss to know just what tillage is most advisable. The problem is hard enough when one has had a long and intimate acquaintance with his farm. For the farmer who has transplanted himself to an unfamiliar locality the difficulties of successful soil management are increased many-fold. Commonly he begins operations under new conditions with only a slight appreciation of the fact that different soils need different treatment.

Many a farmer has virtually bought a "gold brick" in purchasing a farm in a strange locality, basing his estimate of its productiveness upon a superficial resemblance to fertile land which he has known. The black color that indicates great stores of plant food and humus in one soil may denote the presence of injurious substances in another, and the rich reddish brown loam of some sections does not differ greatly in color from shallow sterile clay. Another soil may turn over beautifully with the plow because of an excess of sand which hides the close texture of other likewise unproductive materials.

In about half of the states in the Union the work of mapping the soils has been undertaken. Soil surveys indicate the location and character of each type of soil, and the crops adapted to it. Work has been done by eleven state departments in co-operation with the Department of Agriculture. In ten other states the Government work has gone on without local aid. The twenty-one states in which surveys have been made are scattered all over the Union, giving a fair idea of the prevailing soil types in every geographical division. The area mapped by the Bureau of Soils during the last year was sixty-one million acres, of which about one-fourth was covered in great detail. This brings the total area covered by the Government soil surveys up to nearly 147 million acres.

These surveys make it possible for a man to secure reliable information about many sections in which he might wish to invest. Even residents of long standing may learn much of value about the soils of their own farms of contiguous and similar areas.

RESULTS TELL.

There Can Be No Doubt About the Results in Mt. Sterling.

Results tell the tale. All doubt is removed. The testimony of a Mt. Sterling citizen can be easily investigated. What better proof can be had?

Robert Sheridan, South Queen street, Mt. Sterling, Ky., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills off and on for two years and have found them to be a remedy that lives up to representations. I suffered greatly from attacks of lumbago, some of which were so severe that I could hardly get around. I had pains through my back and kidneys, at times extending into my shoulders. I was also annoyed by irregular passages of the kidney secretions and I think that the hard work on the railroad was responsible for my suffering. I was unable to find relief until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at F. C. Duerson's drug store. They gave me prompt relief and I continued taking them until I was cured."

Friendship Worth While.

An enduring friendship is one of the possessions we should prize most in this day of selfish greed, personal ambition and business hogwashness. Mark Twain makes Pudd'n head Wilson say that "Friendship is one of the redeeming traits of human character." Mark goes on to say that "some friendships are of so strong and abiding and enduring a nature that they have been known to last a whole lifetime—if not asked to lend money."

Of course Mark was joking, as he joked to his last breath. What we started out to say was that there are modern Dimons and Pythias, just as unselfish, just as true, just as sincere as those heroes of old Syracuse to whom no sacrifice was too great that the one would not make it for the other. Our friends are known to us by the sacrifices they make for us, by the kindly deeds they do, by the words of encouragement they speak in times when such words help more than those who have never needed them can know.

An unselfish and sincere friendship is something to be valued, to be cherished, to be appreciated. Especially is this true of those who have been tested and have proved their worth, and these are by no means few in spite of the rush for wealth and fame of the present day. Marc Anthony spoke in volumes over the bier of Caesar when he said:

"He was my friend, faithful and just to me."

The fame of his oration over the body of his dead friend will last as long as types print that great speech. Anthony with all his weaknesses, remembered his friend and his remembrance of that friend is now his chief claim to greatness. Let's all be Marc Antonyms in that respect.—Sun Sentinel.

WIVES HANDLE THE MONEY

Custom Started by a Professor in a Western University Spreads Through Entire Faculty.

If a woman likes the handling of her husband's money she ought to be married to a college professor. In a western university town one of the faculty, a few years ago, being absorbed in his scientific duties, began the practice of handing over to his wife his entire salary and whatever other moneys came to him from his writings, etc., and she did all the buying for the establishment, including the professor's wearing apparel and even books and pen points. He simply mentioned his wants, in case she had not anticipated them, and wife did the rest, allowing him whatever pocket money he needed from time to time. The practice was so successful that both husband and wife sounded its praises on occasions, and the custom spread at that university. It has now grown to such an extent that a professor in that institution would blush to be caught buying himself a scarf or selecting the material for his shirts.

Statistics do not know whether there are any unmarried professors on the list and no further information will be furnished on application. This precautionary measure is deemed necessary for the protection of the town, as it is not large and the boarding facilities are not sufficient to accommodate a sudden influx of the financial sex.

MAGAZINES OF FORMER DAYS

Editor Phillips Asserts That to Read Them Now With Interest Is Impossible.

There had been some conversation of magazines. Some one had breathed the usual sigh for the excellence of by-gone days. And John S. Phillips, editor of the American Magazine, entered an argument of defense.

"A good deal of this talk about the good old days of Longfellow makes me tired," he said.

"Have you ever tried to read the magazines of the days of Longfellow?"

"You haven't? Well, I have. And I couldn't do it. "Take the Atlantic Monthly, for instance, in the days when Longfellow and Lowell and the others were writing for it. The contributions of Longfellow and Lowell were excellent."

"But you simply couldn't wade through 75 per cent. of the contents of those old Atlantics. They'd bore you to extinction."

"The old magazines were bound up in the interests of the old days—they reflected the times in which they were published. That is precisely what the magazines do now. That's what magazines have to do. On the whole, the publications of the last century weren't a bit better than the publications of today."

"If you have any doubts on the subject, just try to read them. Try hard. You won't succeed!"

HARMONICA INDUSTRY.

Trossingen, in the Black forest of Germany, is the center of the foreign harmonica industry, where most of the world's "mouth organs" of the cheaper grade are made. One factory alone is said to employ several thousand hands; and the number of harmonicas turned out by all the factories there is enormous, amounting to almost a million annually. Although the United States imports a large number of the cheap German "mouth organs," the finer grades are made in this country, and these are held to be equal in every way to the more expensive instruments made abroad.

CHECK TELEPHONE ABUSE.

The telephone in a downtown office where there are many visitors daily, some of whom never have any real business to transact there, has become an expensive luxury. Hints thrown out by the office manager seemed to have no effect on the "telephone snipes," as they are termed, and in order to stop the abuse this notice was posted over the instrument: "City calls free to customers and others who can't afford to pay five cents."—New York Tribune.

INVENTOR KEEPS HIS SECRET

Austrian Government's Large Offer of Deposit, Sealed Until His Death, Is Refused.

'At the Paris exposition in 1900 there was exhibited an assortment of marquetry work of great intricacy of design and beauty of finish, but at prices so low as to cast reflection upon its genuineness. Many of the pieces were of duplicate pattern.

Here is another industrial secret of considerable value that doubtless is destined to go to the grave with its discoverer, if it has not already done so, says Cassier's Magazine. No amount of examination, no matter how searching, sufficed to reveal the manner in which the designs of table tops were duplicated with such marvelous accuracy.

That much the inventor, an Austrian, was willing to divulge. The pattern, instead of being made singly of the thickness requisite for the piece it was intended to ornament, such as a table top, was built up of pieces two or three feet long, from which sections were then sawed off. How this composite structure was held together was quite another matter.

Interest in the invention reached a point, where the Austrian government offered its discoverer a small fortune on condition that his secret be deposited, sealed, in the royal vaults, in order that it might be known after his death. He was to have the sole right of manufacture as long as he lived, the secret not to be revealed until after his demise, but he preferred to keep it locked up in his own head.

Uncle Remb—Ah, good old New York! Here's the very place where I was slugged an' robbed of $4 and my watch 10 years ago!

FROM GENERATION TO GENERATION.

Grandfather Billings smiled covertly when Billings junior wondered where Billings third, aged seven, got his "trickiness." "If I didn't keep my eyes open," said Billings junior, hotly. "Billy would outwit me every time."

"This morning," he continued, "I promised him a whipping tonight. When the event came off just now, he never flinched or yelled. 'Puck, pure and simple!' said I to myself, mighty proud for I wasn't sparing him in the least. But that wasn't it at all," he concluded in disgust. "The young rascal had on three pairs of trousers."

"As I remember," observed Grandfather Billings, reflectively, "you used to insert a small geography when a 'good sound one' was due you."—Youth's Companion.

SOIL BACTERIA.

As the poisoning of the harmful bacteria in the soil may injuriously affect useful plants, a French agriculturist has proposed the use of volatile poisons, which evaporate after sterilizing the soil, ready for planting. Effective sterilizers have been found in copper salts, iron sulphate, formal, carbolic derivatives, and carbon disulphide, but these are to be applied with due regard to the character of the soil, of the crop expected and of the germs likely to do harm. The iron and copper salts, for instance, are rendered inert by chemical reaction with calcareous soils.

ELIGIBLE.

The magnate was asking about a certain man whom he thought of employing in a confidential capacity. "Well, there's this about the fellow," replied he whose advice was sought; "the truth certainly is not in him!"

"Just the thing—then it can't be dragged out of him?" exclaimed the magnate enthusiastically.—Lippincott's.

OFFICE SEEKERS SET UP A HOWL

They Saw Promised Jobs Getting Away From Them.

CONSTRUCTION OF PRISON ACT

Claim Is Made That Pending Amendment Will Keep In Office For Four Years the Incumbents in Fat States Jobs at Frankfort and Eddyville—Naturally Enough Those Who Were Looking For A Change Protested Vigorously.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 13.—When the hungry office-seekers, expecting places in the penitentiaries, at Frankfort and Eddyville, as wardens and guards, woke up to the fact that an amendment to the bill creating the bi-partisan prison commission would mean no "pie" for four years, there was a howl of wrath and the result is that a determined fight will be made in the house to defeat the amendment which was added in the senate. It is claimed that under the amendment, which allows all those in the employment of the prison to hold on for four years from Jan. 1, 1912, the present commission, which is removed from office, will be able to put its friends into good places in the forces at the two penitentiaries and that they then can not be removed for four years.

This is not the way the act reads and it is believed that the construction placed on it has been done so to help defeat the amendment so that the jobs can be given to new men. It has been reported that nearly every good place in each prison had been promised, even before the new law was passed. The amendment which the senate adopted provides that all officials and employees of the penal institutions, who were employed on Jan. 1, 1912 shall be retained for a period of four years unless removed for cause. This insures the retention of their jobs by all the employees of the prison who were on duty on the first of last January. This would retain those who have been removed since Jan. 1, for instance, a brother of Rufus Vansant, of Ashland, who was removed recently as a guard. He was in office on the first of January, so under the amendment to the act would be entitled to get his position back.

The attorney general has given as his verbal opinion that the legislature has a right to provide that certain men, employed in various capacities on the first of last January, shall be retained in those capacities under the new law. Judge James Garnett, attorney general, says the legislature could have mentioned them by name, in the act, and therefore have insured their retention; so the legislature has the right to provide for their retention by making a sweeping provision to include all in office on a certain date. At any rate there is certain to be a fight in the house on the amendment to the original bill and if the amendment is defeated the fight will be waged again in the senate where the amendment was adopted.

Little humor has varied the monotony of work in the senate during the present session but there were some laughs when the "county unit bill for dogs" was brought up for discussion. The committee on agriculture proposed to substitute for the present law taxing dogs all over the state, an act allowing each county to vote on the question of taxing dogs, to provide a fund for payment of losses of sheep killed by dogs.

One of the senators, used to discussion on the "county unit" bill affecting the sale of liquor, wanted to know if the precinct would govern, or the whole county, and, if a precinct voted for dogs, would that precinct be allowed to have dogs, despite the fact that the county voted against dogs. It was explained to the senator that the bill did not have anything to do with the precinct in settling the question of whether or not dogs should be taxed.

Senator Bertram wanted the present law repealed. He said that in some sections of the state where sheep are raised, the dog law might work all right, as the people there did not need dogs and did not need sheep. But, he said, he came from a district where one of the principal industries was the selling of animal skins.

"In my district we do a big business in the sale of skins of skunks, mink, possums and coons, and to get these skins we need dogs. You in the sheep districts may not need the dogs, but we do and we do not like to have to pay on a necessity."

Senator Hubble raised a laugh by questioning the constitutionality of the act, but he was serious about it, and declared that it was all foolishness to have dogs in one county, and no dogs in another county, or, actually, tax dogs in one county for the benefit of the sheep raisers, when in an adjoining county, about which no fence had been built, there was no tax on dogs and the latter could cross the border and kill sheep, without any chance of the sheep men getting paid for his losses. The dog law will be heard from again. There are several bills pending to repeal the law, as there have been at every session since the law was first put on the books, six years ago. But it begins to look now like there is not much chance for the law to be repealed, as the bills have been delayed too long.

Now that the governor has signed the bill appropriating $15,000 for a mansion for the governor, which, by the way, was the first bill to reach him, there is much speculation in Frankfort as to where the new building will be located. Under the act, as passed, the building must be in South Frankfort and several sites have been suggested, the one that the public generally most approves being the lot, occupying a block, at Second street and Capitol avenue, the place where Col. A. D. Martin now lives. This is an attractive site, as there is a very large yard, in which many fine trees grow, and the lot occupies the entire block.

But the governor does not favor this site. This is not generally known, but it is a fact that the governor has expressed a preference for the location overlooking the river, near the power plant of the capitol. The site is owned in part by the state, and the other property that is needed can be obtained without much expense. The home of L. Frank Johnson could be bought, and would have to be bought, if the mansion is to be located where the governor prefers. This site would give the mansion a splendid view up and down the Kentucky river and would add greatly to the appearance of the capitol grounds. The governor also points out that the mansion could be heated and lighted, from the power plant belonging to the state, without any additional expense to the state.

Gov. McCreary did not waste any time, after the bill was presented to him, in signing it. He has lived in the old mansion before and it was toppling over at that time, thirty-six years ago. The governor did not recommend, in his message to the legislature, that the mansion be built, but his friends worked for it. The governor will have the distinction of having been the only governor to live twice in the old mansion and the only governor to live in the old and new mansions.

Newspaper men of the state are much interested, or will be interested when they hear about it, in the bill cutting off passes to city, county and state officials. The railroad committee of the house has reported the bill in that form and the newspaper men think that they have been exempted, but they have not. If the bill passes and the railroads are shut off from giving passes to officials, they will also shut down on passes to newspapers and will not issue them. The anti-pass measure, however, is going to have rough sledding. The law would prevent shippers over railroads from getting transportation when they go with live stock and would put everybody on a paying basis, no matter what his claims to free transportation.

With so little warning that nobody paid much attention to it, the Drury bill, repealing the indeterminate sentence act, was passed by the house last week. The present law, which has been on the statute books only two years, has never been fully understood by the general public. Most persons thought that the law left to the judge the question of length of punishment, the jury merely finding guilty. Actually the law fixes the punishment, by defining the minimum and maximum sentence for the offense charged. If a man is convicted of manslaughter, the judge has no option but to sentence him to the penitentiary for from two to twenty-one years, and his length of service depends upon his conduct in the prison. But the court of appeals held that if a convict, who had obeyed the rules and lived according to prison law, was not released on parole, after the expiration of the minimum term for which he was sentenced, he could go to court and get a mandamus to compel the release.

Experience in this and other prisons has shown that the best convicts, while within the prison walls, are the professional crooks and criminals, who know they will lose by disobeying the rules. A "yegg," as a safe-blower is called, makes a first class prisoner but should not be released on the expiration of his minimum term as he has not reformed in the least and will violate his parole, with no chance to get him back, in a few days. So the indeterminate sentence act probably will go by the boards, although it is a part of the prison reform bills which were passed at the last session of the legislature.

Senator Newcomb's bank bill, which slid through the senate, will come up in the house this week and seems certain of passage. The senate did a few things to the bi-partisan features and chopped off a few good jobs from the Republicans to give them to the Democrats. Still, the Republicans are to get some of the jobs, that of deputy, for instance, paying $2,400. Then one of the deputies, who must be a Republican, will get $2,000. It is an open secret here that Col. Thomas J. Smith, who is now the governor's private secretary, will get the place as bank commissioner at $3,600. That will leave another vacancy for the governor to fill and he has had his hands so full of applications for places that he heaves a sigh when he thinks of the rush that will come at the end of the present session.

All kinds of new jobs will be created and in nearly every instance the power of appointment is placed in the hands of the governor. He is getting back much of the patronage that formerly was vested in the chief executive, but the present governor does not care much about having it, not having any further political aspirations. The governor will not be far from eighty years old when he will retire to private life.
